

THE CHURCH IN CORINTH

1 CORINTHIANS 1: 3; ACTS 18:1-19

Paul left the city of Athens and traveled to Corinth. There Paul met people and taught in the synagogue. Paul helped people in the city of Corinth begin a church. Paul stayed a long time to help the people. He preached to the people and told them God sent Jesus to rescue them. Many people in Corinth believed what Paul told them about Jesus.

After a while, Paul left Corinth to visit another place to tell people about Jesus.

Later, people told Paul that the church in Corinth was having problems. This worried Paul, so he wrote a letter to the church people and reminded them of the importance of working together and loving one another.

Paul wrote: "Dear friends in the church at Corinth, I thank God for you. I have heard about some arguing among you. This is not good. We are all to work together in love and cooperate."

Paul loved Jesus, and he loved the people in the church. Paul knew that God gave everyone work to do.

Paul said, "We are workers together. God helps each of us do the work He wants us to do. It takes all of us. Always do your best for God, and show your love for Jesus."
